WELCOME TO THE OSHER LIFELONG LEARNING INSTITUTE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (UDOLLI) began 28 years ago as the University of Dayton Institute for Learning in Retirement or UDILR. Since 2004, we have been proud members of the Osher Lifelong Learning Network, a group of more than 100 institutes across the country dedicated to meeting the needs of adult learners over 50 years of age who wish to gather for the joy of learning and personal fulfillment.

OUR MISSION STATEMENT

The purpose of the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Dayton is to offer adults 50 years or better a wide variety of seminars based on the peer-learning concept and designed to be intellectually stimulating in an informal and noncompetitive environment.

We are a vibrant community

We are adults with wide-ranging interests in art, current events, health and fitness, history, literature, music, religion and science. A curriculum committee works with the Executive Director of Special Programs and Continuing Education to select our curriculum on the basis of member requests, the expertise of moderators, variety, and balance. Moderators include University of Dayton (UD) professors and community professionals who lead peer-to-peer informal lecture and discussion seminars that typically meet once a week for two hours, for three to eight weeks.

Our seminars are noncredit

There are neither tests nor grades, nor educational requirements. Participation is essential, ranging from keeping up with assigned readings and contributing to seminar discussion to sharing the results of one's own research. A majority of our seminars are held on the University of Dayton River Campus in Daniel J. Curran Place, 1700 South Patterson; others are on the UD main campus with a few at off-site locations, such as the Boonshoft Museum of Discovery. The map on page 50 identifies the location of Daniel J. Curran Place and other UD buildings.

UDOLLI is a cooperative venture

We rely on the contributions and participation, both in seminars and out, of each member. Members assist the Executive Director of Special Programs and Continuing Education by moderating seminars, coordinating lecture series, leading small group discussions, organizing activities and volunteer projects, serving on the board of advisors and committees, acting as seminar liaisons, helping in the office and volunteering for all other tasks that keep us going.

Becoming a member of UDOLLI is easy

Registering for seminars is simple and convenient. Page 49 gives complete registration information and procedures. Once you register for a seminar, you automatically become a UDOLLI participating member for the current academic year. The term of membership conforms to the academic calendar, beginning in September and ending in June.

Friends of the Institute are individuals who donate $80 or more each year to support UDOLLI's goals; Life Members are individuals making a one-time donation of $2,000 or more; and Distinguished Service Life Members are individuals giving UDOLLI extraordinary service. Life and Distinguished Members may attend seminars at no cost.

We are part of the University of Dayton's Office of Special Programs and Continuing Education, which is directed by Julie Mitchell and sponsors lifelong learning and professional development programs. Founded in 1994 as the University of Dayton Institute for Learning in Retirement, we have grown from the original 98 members to more than 2,000 members.

Enjoy member benefits

As a UDOLLI member, you are invited to participate in UDOLLI activities and related continuing education-sponsored events such as the Duane W. Chapman Senior Symposium, Senior Fellows undergraduate audit program, New Horizons Music, Dayton Celebration Chorus and University programs. Pages 45-46 give more information about these programs.

As a UD community member, you are invited to participate in UD-sponsored activities such as lectures, recitals, and art and cultural events, and enjoy campus privileges such as Roesch Library and the RecPlex (membership fee required). You're welcome to shop at the UD bookstore and eat at the campus coffee bars or Riverview Cafe, Curran Place. For identification, you'll use your name badge received upon registering for your first seminar.

You may qualify for a grant

If you meet certain financial criteria, you may qualify for a UDOLLI grant, entitling you to enjoy all UDOLLI member benefits and attend seminars at no cost or a reduced cost. Please contact Julie Mitchell at jmitchell1@udayton.edu, or call the office of Special Programs and Continuing Education at 937-229-2605 for additional information. All requests are confidential.

Are you interested in moderating a seminar?

UDOLLI is grateful to its volunteer moderators who share their knowledge and provide a comprehensive curriculum. Moderators become Friends of the Institute for the academic year in which they teach. They and their spouses can enjoy member benefits and may attend seminars during the year at no cost. If you are interested in learning more about becoming a moderator, Julie Mitchell will be happy to talk with you. Call Special Programs and Continuing Education at 937-229-2605 or 937-229-2347 for more information.

UDOLLI Privileges

Your UDOLLI nametag gives you access to:

- University Libraries

MONDAY SEMINARS

Wonderful Untold Stories We All Should Know About NEW

The journey of Blacks in America is filled with wonderful stories of the collaboration of Blacks and others to help this great country and overcome racism. Some of these stories have been discussed if you've taken the Our American Journey Tour, while others may be new to you. Note: There will be two separate sessions of the same program. Members should only sign up for one.

1 Monday, January 23

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Michael Carter was appointed by President Johnson in 2015 as Senior Advisor to the President and Chief Diversity Officer. In 2021 The Dayton Business Journal awarded Michael the Diversity in Business Award. The National Conference for Community & Justice (NCCJ) awarded Michael the 2018 Humanitarian Mentorship Award for his commitment to mentoring/empowering emerging leaders, as well as using his voice and efforts to bring about social and economic change in the community. Michael has been recognized with many other awards for his community work and advocacy. A former public school teacher, administrator and coach, Michael has over 40 years of experience working with youth. Michael holds a B.A. from Wittenberg University and an M.A. in educational leadership from Wright State.

Industrial Strength Bluegrass — Southwestern Ohio's Musical Legacy NEW

From the Appalachian Migration to the Bluegrass Music Hall of Fame, Ohio's Miami Valley has an enormous chapter in the evolution of bluegrass music.

Required Text: Industrial Strength Bluegrass. May be obtained at www.press.illinois.edu. Cost is $29.95 for printed copy; $14.95 for e-book.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Joe Mullins is a Miami Valley native, active for 40 years as a bluegrass music broadcaster and banjo artist. He is on the air daily on Real Roots Radio and on tour with the Radio Ramblers. See www.radioramblers.com.

Introduction to iPhone NEW

An entry-level seminar to acquaint the participant with basic iPhone uses such as email, texting, photos, Siri, calendars, alarms and reminders. A worthy goal would be to easily send and receive messages with your family.

Equipment Needed: An Apple iPhone

4 Mondays, January 23-February 13

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Neil Jones has been an active UDOLLI member since 2005. He is a retired small business owner and a graduate of Miami University with an MBA from Wayne State University. He is a regular presenter in travel adventure seminars.

Amendments to the Constitution — Adopted, Rejected and Proposed NEW

ZOOM

This seminar covers the 27 amendments to the U.S. constitution with some history leading to adoption. It also looks at those that were approved by Congress and rejected by the states. Some of the thousands of proposals made will be considered, as well as a look at some amendments that might be appropriate.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

Al Biegel has a Bachelor of Arts from University of Dayton (1963) and a Juris Doctorate from Chase Law School (1967). He practiced law in Montgomery County for 47 years.

How Things Work: The Science Behind the News

Modern society is heavily dependent on science-based systems and high-tech gadgets, such as GPS, fiber optics communication, lasers, cellular phones and high-tech medical imaging. If you wondered how these gadgets do their magic, this seminar is for you.

After a brief review of basic concepts of modern physics, we will describe the operation principles of lasers, fiber optics, GPS and atomic clock, medical MRI and solar cells. Leave your advanced calculus and differential equations at home. All the math that you will need will be provided.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Moshe Oren is a retired Ph.D. physicist who specialized in the field of optics and solid-state physics. He worked for over 35 years in the industry, in the areas of fiber optics communication, semiconductor lasers, holography and display technology. He produced numerous scientific papers and holds six patents.

Traditional Country Music in Film NEW

Over the course of six weeks, we will explore the culturally significant themes found in American country music roots by screening a series of documentaries and feature films. From the historic contributions of the original Carter Family and Bill Monroe, the father of bluegrass music, up to the modern era, the films will focus on the themes of family, home, love, loss, redemption and the life-affirming traditions of a musical heritage. A guest appearance by a local filmmaker and several local traditional country musicians/artists will help enhance the program experience for participants.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Al Turnbull is a 1969 UD alum and has been a member of the Corndrinkers band for 46 years, performing traditional country music and barn dances. In the past he was a country/bluegrass on-air programmer at WYSO public radio as well as a concert organizer for a number of local venues.

In 2017 the Corndrinkers received the Appalachian Unsung Hero Award from Sinclair Community College for their contributions made, through music, to the Appalachian Community of the Miami Valley. Al has presented a baseball film series for UDOLLI for the past seven years.

Tricks Lawyers Play in the Courtroom, Reprised

This seminar will examine and discuss various courtroom tactics and strategies used by attorneys to persuade juries to accept their clients' versions of the facts. On a more philosophical level, is the American trial designed to determine the "truth" or does it serve other more important purposes?

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Dennis Turner is a professor emeritus for the University of Dayton School of Law. Before teaching in the law school, Professor Turner was an Assistant County Prosecutor and a Magistrate Judge. He was one of the original five faculty members at the UD law school when it was reopened in 1974. Over that time Professor Turner has taught a wide variety of courses, many of which focused on litigation. He has served as assistant dean, acting dean, director of the clinic, director of the Legal Profession Program, director of the Standardized Client Program, mock trial and moot court coach. For two sabbaticals, he worked with English barristers trying criminal cases. He taught in the University of Notre Dame London Program and has taken students on two-week excursions to study law in Italy and England multiple times. He has been chosen outstanding faculty member of the year several times by UDSL students and was given the university-wide Award for Teaching. He was also named Master Teacher by the university. His most recent publication is: "What Did You Do in the War, Sister? How Belgian Nuns Defied and Deceived the Nazis in World War Two."

Socrates Café NEW

This seminar will take a "deep dive" into questions concerning individual interaction with the world, as well as questions that have concerned and continue to concern humanity. The goal is for all members to explore questions about human life, thinking, philosophies and experiences, in a thoughtful and meaningful way. Respectful listening is a primary expectation. Respectful sharing is also encouraged from everyone. Those who feel that they have conclusively answered most of humanity's deep questions would not feel comfortable in this environment. This seminar is best suited for curious and open-minded thinkers who are willing to share and explore ideas.

Required Text: A dictionary of your choice weighing less than 2 lbs. (1 Kg). Scales will not be used; just use common sense.

Seminar Limit: 12

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Brian Mays is a retired educator and has a significant background teaching children and adults from ages 8-60. He has taught in public schools and on the university level. Brian has advanced educational experiences in biology, psychology, psychology of gifted children and adults, and philosophy.

Glimpses of the Civil War

Glimpses of the Civil War is a seminar that Rick Carlile has been moderating at UDOLLI for more than 10 years, with additions and modifications from time to time. It is impossible to cover the entire Civil War in 12 hours, so Carlile has picked topics of the Civil War which he believes would be most interesting to our students. These topics include: (1) general background; (2) military campaigns; (3) Gettysburg campaign; (4) Ohio in the Civil War; (5) potpourri of various topics; and (6) photography in the Civil War and a visual tour of the Dayton Soldiers' Home.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Rick Carlile is a retired attorney. He has been a student of Civil War history and a collector of Civil War artifacts and photography for more than 40 years. Rick received a B.B.A. from Ohio University and a J.D. degree from the University of Michigan Law School. He has written articles for various magazines and has provided copies of the Civil War images in his collection for publication in numerous books and magazines, along with providing copies to various museums. Copies of Rick's photographs also appeared in Ken Burns' landmark TV miniseries on the Civil War. He is an avid Civil War book and photography collector.

Introduction to Wine Appreciation (AKA Fun With Grapes) NEW

Join us as we explore the world of wine. The purpose of the seminar is to have fun. During this seminar, we will learn how to evaluate wines, learn what you like and how to order with confidence in a restaurant or store. Don't be intimidated by cork dorks. We will clear up the myths propagated by wine geeks. This is not just a boring lecture, each week we will taste a few wines to demonstrate the key topics and most of all have fun with grapes! No experience necessary.

Seminar Limit: 36

4 Mondays, January 23-February 13

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Dennis Hall has been involved with the American Wine Society (AWS), the country's largest consumer wine education organization, for over 30 years, including as chairman of the local Dayton chapter for the last 15 years, leading monthly educational tastings. He has managed gourmet grocery wine departments in Los Angeles and Dayton (DLM Oakwood) as well as owned Fairfield Wine in Beavercreek for six years. He has degrees in hospitality management and beverage management from UCLA as well as attended numerous professional seminars across all aspects of the wine, beer and liquor industry.

Perry Mason 2.01

This seminar will take a look at seasons two and three. The first hour we will look at the show and the second hour will be a breakdown with a look at how the show was filmed and biographies of the supporting actors. A seminar for the real TV and movie buff.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Terry Martin is retired from Coca-Cola USA. He majored in history and is a book collector and seller of used books.

The Development of Military Airlift: Then and Now NEW

 ZOOM

If you've watched and wondered about those huge aircraft in the skies above Dayton, this seminar will answer some of your questions. What exactly are they and what are they doing here? How have they evolved from the first struggling efforts over a century ago? Who developed them, who's flying them and what exactly is their mission today?

We'll start with the earliest days, when a hundred pounds of mail was considered a full load and move through such events as "Flying the Hump" over the Himalayas in World War II, and the Berlin Airlift in the early days of the Cold War. We'll study the important planes and people of yesteryear and today, and close with some glimpses into the future.

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

3-5 p.m., ZOOM

Dr. Bud Baker is professor emeritus of management at Wright State University, where he spent 30 years in a variety of teaching and administrative positions. Prior to that, he served for 20 years in the U.S. Air Force, as a military airlift command navigator, strategic air command missile crew commander, U.S. Air Force Academy professor and aircraft acquisition program manager at Wright-Patterson AFB. A frequent guest speaker in various UDOLLI seminars, this will be Dr. Baker's first time as a moderator, and he very much looks forward to the opportunity.

Designing Gardens

ZOOM

A great design makes an ordinary garden inspiring. This seminar is an introduction to garden design, and will feature the fundamentals, gardens for pollinators and wildlife, shady gardens, containers or small spaces, and quick fix aesthetic appeal. Plants of Merit and some discussion on specific plants will be covered.

Starting from scratch, renovating or just adding some items to make your garden have a bigger impact, you will get some ideas. We will be talking about YOUR gardens, as well as other examples, and students will be asked to have some relevant materials to make the discussion more practical.

Please have photos of your current garden or trouble areas in your garden available for the first session.

Seminar Limit: 20

6 Mondays, January 23-February 27

3-5 p.m., ZOOM

Yvonne Dunphe is a graduate of Purdue University, earning a Bachelor of Science degree from the School of Agriculture with a minor in marketing. She has had a diverse professional career and found her passion for gardening later in life. She earned her designation as a Master Gardener in 2001 from The Ohio State University, has taught classes in various gardening topics and sustainable landscaping, and has continued her education with focus in the area of permaculture and garden design. She has been with Five Rivers MetroParks since 2001, starting as a volunteer at Wegerzyn Gardens MetroPark. From volunteer to horticulture to education to conservation, Yvonne currently is a volunteer coordinator with Five Rivers MetroParks. In addition, Yvonne has been the Horticulture Consultant for Washington Township for the past 20 years. She and her husband, Jim, also own an orchid business, and travel to shows and give orchid presentations around the Midwest. Gardening, plants and sharing this passion keeps her teaching gardening seminars for UDOLLI.

Finance Update for Seniors 2023

Common financial problems encountered by seniors; myths; retirement income tax rules; strategies; cash planning; family issues; inheritance; gifting; and inflation concerns will be discussed. The viewpoint is for retired people with modest income and modest wealth based on the experiences of a professional accountant. Current issues will be offered for discussion. Other topics will be house sale myths; social security taxation; capital gains-a zero tax; retirement tax traps; featured financial writers; medical costs; Ohio issues; city tax rules; when gifts are given — what to do; and inherited assets.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

John Keyes is a retired Certified Public Accountant with 22 years' experience (1997-2019) dealing with small business concerns and financial problems faced by area seniors. He taught accounting at the University of Dayton from 1972 to 1978, and later at Urbana University. John holds a B.S. in business from Miami University and an MBA from Southern Methodist University. Before his retirement he made tax presentations to local tax preparation groups and is a retired member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. John enrolled as a participant at the UDOLLI in the autumn of 2019 and greatly appreciates this phase of retirement. He has presented this seminar by Zoom and in-person methods.

Legacy Writing: Words for the Future

Do you have stories from your life that you want to share? Whether you want to write them just for your family or want to seek publication, this seminar is for you. Experienced and first-time writers collaborate toward the goal of at least one (often more!) completed piece per person by seminar's end. Various aspects of the writing craft will be covered with opportunities for practice. With permission, stories will be gathered into a digital collection. If circumstances permit, there will be an evening event where your work can be read aloud to an audience.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Jude Walsh writes personal essays, poetry and fiction. Her work has been published in numerous literary magazines and anthologies, including Chicken Soup for the Soul. Before retiring and beginning her writing career, she taught for 33 years, serving students from preschool through the doctoral level.

Philosophical and Theological Questions We Might Want to Ask as We Near the End of Life

We will address what the philosophers Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Epicurus and Epictetus have taught about death and their guesses about the afterlife — if there is one. We will do the same with St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Karl Rahner and contemporary theologians. What is the purpose of life? Is there a hell? Is there a heaven? What are the sources for the thinking about these destinies? Is there an original sin that merits God becoming human? What is happiness? What might happen to us at death and immediately afterward? Is there some kind of “post-mortem existence”? We all have our views on the answers to these questions and others. Let's discuss them, argue about them, affirm or deny them.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Robert Obach, Ph.D., teaches Philosophy in the undergraduate level at the University of Dayton. Robert has been teaching since 1967 in the areas of history, literature, theology and philosophy. He has worked for the Diocese of Memphis (1973-1981) and the Archdiocese of Cincinnati (1981-1989) in the area of adult religious education. He has taught at Mount St. Michael University, Xavier University, Wilmington College, Sinclair College, Antioch University and U.D. Robert's specialty is combining classic literature with philosophy and theology.

Dealing with Life's Predicaments I

ZOOM

In an ever-changing and challenging world, it is helpful to have some coping practices, tools and reflection along the way. This didactic and interactive seminar focuses on ways to help you cope with what life throws at you. Topics will include Deepak Chopra's pillars of well-being; effective coping skills; meditations to reduce stress and anxiety; influence of the unconscious; a process for handling challenging emotions; and dealing effectively with conflict. You will have an opportunity to be inspired by poets and the wisdom of Mother Teresa, Thomas Merton, Michael Singer, Richard Rohr and others.

Seminar Limit: 30

5 Tuesdays, January 17-February 14

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

Roger Fortman has been a licensed clinical counselor, teacher, consultant and executive coach for over 35 years. He has worked with UDOLLI for the past 15 years as a consultant and moderator. He has been an executive coach and national presenter for the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization in Washington, D.C., and a leadership instructor at the University of Dayton's Center for Leadership. He has done extensive work in holistic healthcare, mental health and leadership.

Stories of New Life: The Sunday Gospel Readings for Lent and Easter 2023 NEW

The Gospel stories that many churches will use on the Sundays of Lent and Easter 2023 are some of the most marvelous narratives in the Bible. Taken from the Gospel according to John, those during Lent (our first four sessions) focus on key baptismal themes. In the last two sessions, we will explore the Gospel readings for Good Friday and Easter. We will approach all these narratives as stories, exploring John's masterful use of literary and dramatic techniques that make his remarkable stories even more powerful.

Required Text: Please bring a Bible of your choice. The moderator recommends and will use the New Revised Standard Version.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Mike (the Rev. Michael) Kreutzer is a retired Episcopal priest. He holds both an M.A. in sacred theology and an M.A. in biblical studies from the Athenaeum of Ohio, with additional studies at the University of San Francisco and the University of Dayton. Throughout his ministry, he has continued to study and teach, enabling many fellow believers to deepen their understanding and appreciation of the Bible.

Nations of the World NEW

Have you wondered where various nations are located and what their economies, governments and society are like? Then this is the seminar for you. We all know any nation at any time can take center stage in world affairs (who knew much about Ukraine before the Russian invasion). We will take a look at current conditions in 12 nations — some big, some small, some well-known now, some lesser known, and try for a snapshot of cultural, economic and political conditions in these nations today. Here is your opportunity to learn more about your world.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Janet Hess is a former high school and junior high school social studies teacher. She is appreciative of anything that adds to our understanding of the world and other cultures.

Tim Riordan thinks it is interesting and important to learn more about the nations of the world, especially in our globalized world. He hopes that UDOLLI members will share that passion in both presenting and listening to relevant information about these 12 nations of the world.

Praise the Lord and Pass the Biscuits NEW

From Sinclair Lewis' 1926 fictional evangelist Elmer Gantry to larger-than-life personalities the likes of Billy Sunday, Father Divine and Aimee Semple McPherson, the United States has never lacked for fire-breathing evangelists and faith healers. But starting with Oral Roberts and Billy Graham, the medium of television changed the way the masses could be reached. Today's televangelists the likes of Jimmy Swaggart, Kenneth Copeland, Benny Hinn, Jesse Duplantis, T. D. Jakes, Joel Osteen, Creflo Dollar, among others, continue a seemingly endless parade of folks wanting to share with you a message from God. And who can forget Jim and Tammy Faye Baker or for that matter Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Mother Angelica for the Catholics among us?

Are many of these television personalities mere hucksters, con artists, opportunistic money-grubbers, posing as messengers of the Lord? Or are they authentic representatives of a unique brand of American religiosity? Many televangelists preach a "prosperity Gospel" while they live lavish lifestyles, reside in palatial mansions, own fleets of private jets and all together collectively rake in billions of dollars a year from their flocks. Religious capitalism at its finest?

In this seminar we will learn about the history of American televangelism and ponder such questions as: What motivates the millions of people attracted to televangelists? Is personal despair a factor or do those attracted to this type of American religiosity hold a real and abiding faith? Are these ministries like a heavenly lottery that plays on folks' emotions and fears? Alternatively, maybe these televangelists really are God's messengers on Earth. Join this seminar with an open mind as together we think about a religious phenomenon that is truly American and has captured the hearts of millions of people for generations.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Ed Garten, Ph.D., is a UDOLLI Distinguished Moderator and a UD dean emeritus and professor emeritus. An ordained United Methodist clergyperson, Ed holds both the Master of Divinity and the master's in religious education and served in parish ministry prior to beginning a 40-year academic career that spanned five universities. His first exposure to variety in the practice of religion dates to 1965 when his undergraduate sociology professor took part of the class to visit a rural West Virginia church where worshipers handled poisonous snakes and drank strychnine. Since then, Ed has not been comfortable around snakes, poisons or Kool-Aid.

Creative Studio: Prepare to See More! NEW

See more possibilities!

Prepare to see more clearly, thoroughly, and more productively. Using exercises-in-seeing tailored to our group, cultivate your photographer's eye. Develop your creative vision.

In this participatory studio, we take a fresh look at what we photograph, our approach to a subject, and how we think about it. Our focus this session: looking, examining, making deliberate choices, and exploring alternatives. Classic and contemporary photographers have met the same challenges. Their experience, images and writings will help guide us.

Using creative constraints, playful assignments and intriguing professional examples, we will enhance our own photography, and create some fun pix. Join us!

Requirements: Shoot new images each week with any camera of your choice, including cellphone cameras.

You must know how to operate your own camera.

Upload one new photograph each week to our online album.

Opportunity: Exhibit our new images.

Seminar Limit: 18

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Shulamit Adler, Ph.D., is a writer, a visual artist, photographer, community educator, and neuro- and clinical psychologist.

Her celebration of the Midwest and Miami Valley — in particular, lyrical flower images and animals with attitude — can be seen in shows, installations, publications and private collections around the region. She has offered her creative studios and seminars in photography through our Lifelong Learning Institute for over a decade. She is delighted to explore photography with you and exhibit your work.

Movies with Music III NEW

Movies and Music all wrapped in three, two-week adventures. In week one we'll learn about the movie (director, actors, etc....) and review the music showcased by the movie. This will include background on the artists and watching music videos by those artists. The second week will be watching the movie and discussing the plot, themes and characters.

The seminar will cover the following movies and their soundtracks:

- 1) "Remember the Titans"
- 2) "Summer of Soul"
- 3) "Good Morning Vietnam"

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Bill Skelly graduated from University of Dayton in 1974 with a degree in mathematics. After four years as a junior high and high school math teacher, he transitioned to information technology working for GMAC, EDS and HP (same job, but he was "transitioned" to the acquiring company) developing and supporting financial systems across the USA and internationally. Bill enjoys movies (going to and DVDs @ home), music (especially classic rock/60s thru 80s), college basketball (GO UD!), golf and UDOLLI (attendee and presenter).

Who Was Jesus: The Historians' View NEW

During the past 2,000 years Christianity has filtered the concept of Jesus in so many ways that the real person has been all but lost. This seminar will use the processes of history scholars to look at life during the Pax Romana and examine the philosophies of the notable peasant in backwater Judea. Sources will include authors called Mark, Luke, Matthew, Paul and Thomas, other near-contemporary observers and modern writers. We will list teachings and actions by Jesus of Nazareth that scholars agree are probably authentic and speculate about mysteries such as the lost years of Jesus, miracles and the resurrection. Lastly, we'll attempt to establish some conclusions for the open-minded about Jesus of Nazareth.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

The historical Jesus has been a topic of personal interest for Jeff John for many years. He is a professor emeritus in the Department of Communication at Wright State University, where he taught journalism courses for 29 years. For UDOLLI he has taught six seminars, and he is the author of "Progressives and Prison Labor," co-author of "A Bird in Your Hand: A Story of Ambiguous Justice" and author of "Lab Rats Can't Say No: A Story In the Future," a science fiction novel. He earned a Ph.D. and master's degree from Ohio University and a B.S. in journalism from Bowling Green State University. A Dayton-area native, he and his wife, Karin Avila-John, live in Dayton's Oregon Historic District.

International Mystery Videos IV: Murders, Mysteries and Scams NEW

This is the fourth installment of the international mystery movies and TV video series. We'll watch more foreign TV mysteries produced or filmed in Europe, New Zealand and Asia. Videos are taken from various streaming services — both free and pay. In addition to murder mysteries, we will also see mysteries involving scams and cons meant to right wrongs. Participants will learn about the actors, creators and locations of these series, in addition to being exposed to the cultures, and in some cases, sexy accents of the origin country. Come prepared for good mysteries, both light and dark. NOTE: Videos are in the language of the country of origin with English sub-titles and a few contain some "salty" language.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Luanne Handley-Blair is a civilian retiree from the U.S. Air Force where she worked in international logistics and program management at WPAFB and in Virginia. While living in Northern Virginia, Luanne and her husband started watching international mysteries available through streaming channels and the libraries. This is her fourth international mysteries seminar.*

Historical Fiction Forum NEW

Love history? Love fiction? Then join me and your UDOLLI friends as we read, review, discuss and unearth three great historical fiction titles specially chosen for this seminar. Since we will explore one book every OTHER week, it is imperative to locate each of the titles (listed below) and begin reading prior to the seminar. NOTE: Please determine how early you need to start reading in order to finish the book for each of the three seminar meetings — everyone has a different reading pace!

It is also recommended that you take notes — such things as questions that surface while reading, connections to historical figures and insights to universal themes, narrative style and any other items that strike you as relevant to remember for our discussions. Remember: your participation is key for this rich experience. And, of course, the moderator, Christine, hopes you enjoy these titles as much as she has!

Our Book List — most of these are in the library; all can be found on Amazon.com.

Meeting #1 (Jan. 24): “The Indigo Girl,” by Natasha Boyd

Meeting #2 (Feb. 7): “America’s First Daughter,” by Stephanie Dray and Laura Kamoie

Meeting #3 (Feb. 21): “The Tobacco Wives,” by Adele Myers

Seminar Limit: 25

3 Tuesdays, January 24, February 7, 21

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Christine Tieman has been an avid reader since the age of three. She was destined to become an enthusiastic English teacher and lifelong learner. Retired from a wonderful stint at the high school/college level, Christine is excited to spend her free time with other UDOLLI bibliophiles.*

Dayton’s Beer History

Beginning with a history of fermented beverages around the world, we’ll look at the development of commercial breweries throughout the Miami Valley. Then we’ll take a hard look at the local world of craft brewing by visiting several local brewers. We’ll learn about their businesses and their beers. This year, we’ll start by brewing our own beer. Time permitting, in a bonus session on February 28 we will bottle what we brewed.

Materials Fee: $15, to cover the cost of the beer, bottles and caps.

Seminar Limit: 25

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place; Local Breweries

Tom Gaudion has been a volunteer at Dayton History’s Carillon Brewing Company since its opening in 2014. With a background in engineering, marketing and sales he knew very little about brewing until then. After five+ years of real hands-on experience, he has found that there is a lot to learn about brewing’s influence on the development of the settlement that became Dayton, Ohio, and its progress to the craft brewing environment of today. Joining Tom in presenting this session will be members of the Carillon Brewing Company staff.*

WEDNESDAY SEMINARS

An Introduction to the Amazon Rainforests NEW

Rainforests are one of the most endangered ecosystems in the world. This seminar provides a brief introduction into tropical rainforests of the Amazon. We will explore these amazing forests and discover some of the unique animals, plants and wildlife, found in this area of the Amazon River basin.

Discussions will include why these areas have the highest diversity of life on earth, conservation efforts and Indigenous people of the rainforests. Our journey starts with traveling over the Andes Mountains to the rainforests of Manu Biosphere Reserve. Manu is an UNESCO Heritage site, located in the Amazon lowland region of Peru.

Seminar Limit: 25

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Marcia Wendeln is a tropical biologist, researcher and emeritus faculty with the Department of Biological Sciences at Wright State University. She has studied at the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute in Panama and taught a variety of courses at Wright State for 30 years. Courses included tropical ecology, medicinal plants, Indigenous cultures and conservation biology. Field classes in Ecuador and Peru have allowed students to explore the diverse rainforests of the Amazon. Primary research focus is wildlife conservation and endangered species in the rainforests of Central and South America.*

Stars and Planets: An Introduction to the Sky NEW

ZOOM

A seminar for beginners and anyone who wants to know more about the objects and phenomena that can be observed just by looking at the Northern Hemisphere sky. No prior knowledge of the skies beyond the everyday is assumed. No telescope is needed. This is a holistic approach to the sky as our window into a dynamic universe. Topics, all at an introductory level, include:

- How the sky works: celestial driving forces, natural laws, basic terminology
- Our Earth and solar system
- Stars: types, traits, lifecycles, groups
- Skygazing: sky phenomena observable without telescopes
- To infinity and beyond: tools for further inquiry

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

Bill Russo is a retired electronics engineer and Sinclair College professor who developed a lifelong interest in the heavens as a result of elementary school field trips to the American Museum of Natural History — Hayden Planetarium in New York City. He holds a Master of Engineering degree from Cornell University.*

Mystery Novels From Different Cultures Around the World NEW

This seminar will cover mystery novels set in different countries: USA, Denmark, Guatemala, Israel and Korea. The seminar will explore universal themes involved in crime, and unique aspects of each culture. The moderator will present information about the authors and countries and lead a discussion of each book. The books are available in local libraries, or Search Ohio, or for purchase at local bookstores or online.

Week 1: “The Saturday Morning Murder” (1992), Batya Gur

Week 2: “The Midnight Witness” (2018), Sara Blaedel

Julia’s Kitchen Garden at Patterson Homestead NEW

Do you enjoy gardening and history? Then join us at Carillon Park to continue our journey to rediscover Julia Patterson’s Kitchen Garden at the Patterson Homestead. This winter is the first of three seminars that will be offered and will explore the garden design and selection of plants and seeds available in the 1850s. Planting of the garden continues in the spring session, and harvesting and cooking in the summer 2023. All sessions held at the Patterson Homestead, 1815 Brown Street. Parking is free.

Seminar Limit: 25

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

9:30-11:30 a.m., Patterson Homestead, 1815 Brown Street

Mike Schumacher served as a Greene County master gardener, recreating historic heirloom gardens at the Mercer-Smith House in Fairborn and at the Patterson Homestead. He has visited and studied several historic gardens including Colonial Williamsburg, Monticello, Mount Vernon and Conner’s Prairie. He is a board-certified volunteer naturalist and a member of Dayton History at Carillon Park.*

2022 Dayton Literary Peace Prize Winners NEW

This seminar will focus on the winners and runners-up for the 2022 Literary Peace Prize. They are:

- “Invisible Child,” by Andrea Elliott (runner-up in nonfiction)
- “How the Word is Passed,” by Clint Smith (winner in nonfiction)
- “What Comes After,” by JoAnne Tompkins (runner-up in fiction)
- “The Love Songs of W.E.B. Du Bois,” by Honoree Fanonne Jeffers (winner in fiction)

The books will be read and discussed in the order listed and should be available at bookstores and online. We usually Zoom with one of the authors in the last session.

Required Texts: The Four Books Listed Above

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Mary Ann Gasior earned a Ph.D. in English literature from Tulane University, taught college-level English courses at Wright State and other universities, served on the UDOLLI Board of Advisors for six years and has taught 20 seminars on such topics as Agatha Christie, Jane Austen, F. Scott Fitzgerald, science fiction and the DLPP books since 2013.

Exploration of the Universe, Part 2: Journey Through the Cosmos NEW

Come, see and learn about our universe. Galaxies, comets, black holes, dark matter, the Big Bang and the search for life outside of our planet! We will cover the new moon mission, Mars missions and new discoveries being made every day by amazing scientific devices.

Who will get to Mars first: NASA, China or Elon Musk's SpaceX? When will we return to the Moon? What is all the fuss about the discovery of the Higgs boson particle at the Large Hadron Collider?

This seminar could be considered a continuation of The History of the Exploration of the Universe, but there is no prerequisite to take that seminar first. Let's go journey through the Cosmos!

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Tom Cammel is an enthusiast of space exploration and astrophysics. He has moderated seminars about exploring the universe and wants to continue the story. He has an engineering degree from the University of Dayton, is a retired product manager from Trimble Navigation and is on the board of directors of the Dayton Bookfair Foundation. He is an avid bike rider and birder.

Hey, I Didn't Know That! African American History Trivia

Other than Slavery, The Civil Rights Movement and the 44th President, so little is known about the interesting stories of African Americans. This fun four-week seminar will test your knowledge, with the goal of knowing more than you did before you took the seminar.

With over 600 questions we will learn and discuss interesting pieces of American History that are rarely told. This fun seminar has been a staple of Black History Month at Sinclair for several years, and you'll LOVE it!

Areas Covered:

- Geography
- History
- Sports
- Current Events
- Miscellaneous

4 Wednesdays, January 18-February 8

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Michael Carter was appointed by President Johnson in 2015 as Senior Advisor to the President and Chief Diversity Officer. In 2021 The Dayton Business Journal awarded Michael The Diversity in Business Award. The National Conference for Community & Justice (NCCJ) awarded Michael the 2018 Humanitarian Mentorship Award for his commitment to mentoring/empowering emerging leaders, as well as using his voice and efforts to bring about social and economic change in the community. Michael has been recognized with many other awards for his community work and advocacy. A former public school teacher, administrator and coach, Michael has over 40 years of experience working with youth. Michael holds a B.A. from Wittenberg University and an M.A. in educational leadership from Wright State.

Side A 1965 — Top 100 Billboard Hits

 ZOOM

Join Laureene and Shari via Zoom for an upbeat trip down memory lane in 1965. This fun-filled seminar will feature lots of top 100 pop hits from that year as well as reminders of the culture of the era. Tune in each week and be prepared to sing along (muted or un-muted) to Side A of those 45 rpm vinyls.

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

12:30-2:30 p.m., ZOOM

Laureene Bollinger is retired from nearly 42 years of bedside nursing. The majority of her experience focused on medical surgical critical care, but the last 10 years she was a hospice/palliative care bedside nurse.

Laureene joined UDOLLI in 2011 and was voted to the UDOLLI Board of Advisors in 2014. Since then, she has been active on various committees particularly four years as co-chair of the Volunteer Committee, a term as Secretary and is presently serving as President.

She accomplished the Distinguished Moderator Award for her six-week seminar on advanced healthcare planning, Talking About Dying Won't Kill You and her two-hour seminar Decide to be Heard.

Shari Kern holds a degree in computer science from the University of Dayton. She joined UDOLLI 10 years ago and was elected to the UDOLLI Board of Advisors in 2018. In addition to serving on a couple of committees, Shari is co-chair of the Volunteer and the Technology & Interactive Learning Support advisory committees. She also is a member of the Red Lanyard Team and most recently moderated Windows 11 Basics.

America's Public Safety Crisis

 ZOOM

Explore significant issues facing local governments and their police forces as a result of the rise in violent crime, riots and active shooters at malls, public places and schools. The Uvalde, Texas shooting overwhelmed a small police department before ending 77 minutes later. Confusion reigned as 370 police officers from up to 100 miles responded. Does a similar fate await small police departments that dot our nation and communities and are underprepared? Elected officials have choices to provide funding and support to their police forces to respond on their own OR thru mutual aid partnerships. Both choices are costly. Police are on the front line and their number one priority and solemn pledge are to protect life. Discussions will be encouraged.

5 Wednesdays, January 18-February 15

12:30-2:30 p.m., ZOOM

Lt. Dan Baker retired from the Dayton Police Department after 25 years. He commanded the Violent Crime Detective Bureau, the Fifth Police District and established the Hostage Negotiation Team. Dan holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from UD. After DPD, Dan was director of Classified Nuclear Safeguards and Security Programs at the U.S. DOE Mound in Miamisburg, Hanford Nuclear Reservation in Washington State and Oak Ridge National Security Complex in Oak Ridge Tenn. Other experiences include executive director of the University of Tennessee Law Enforcement Innovation Center and National Forensic Training Academy.

Dan also served as executive director of the Cincinnati Citizens Complaint Authority following the 2001 riot. For 20 years Dan was an Ohio Licensed Professional Mental Health Counselor with focus on drug and alcohol treatment. He served as a volunteer at the Nova House residential facility. Dan is also a board member of the Montgomery County Juvenile Court's Building Bridges Work Therapy Program.

Dan and his wife, Attorney Gwen Nalls, authored "Blood in the Streets: Racism, Riots and Murders in the Heartland of America" that details one of the most violent decades in America and Dayton, 1965-1975.

Europe's Great Cathedrals, Basilicas and Abbeys: Feats of Faith, Ambition, Pride, Engineering, Art and Endurance NEW

Monumental architecture is a principal expression of the world's great civilizations. In Europe this expression is evidenced over the centuries in the construction of its great cathedrals, basilicas and abbey churches. This seminar will explore the history and human drama of why they were built, how they were built, the purposes they served and how they have endured for over 1,000 years.

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Dr. Bill Schuerman served as VP, dean and faculty member at the University of Dayton for 28 years before retiring in 2013. His undergraduate teaching focused on early European history. He has been a UDOLLI moderator for 25+ years. He and his wife, Ann, travel annually to Europe.

Estate Planning for Ohio Residents

The seminar will provide information about estate planning, estate administration and elder law planning for Ohio residents.

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

John Clough is an Ohio licensed attorney and has been practicing estate planning for 28 years.

Fred's Favorite Noirs

Relive the world of film noir in six exciting B-movie thrillers, as we see what lurks in the shadows of the American dream. Walk unlit streets with tough guys, dangerous dames and the occasional psychopath. Meet shady characters in grubby dives, crooked cops on the take and cynical private eyes trying to eke out a living. We'll discuss the cast and crew, talk about what makes a noir and learn a little about how movies are made. Experience life on the edge as we look at the dark side of human nature!

Note: The moderator has received a lot of requests (well, three actually) to show some of the earlier movies in his film noir series. These are his favorites from 2015 through 2017. All of the charts have been brought up to current standards and many new features added.

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Fred Oliver is a retired WPAFB engineer and longtime movie, music and showbiz fan. He's been a UDOLLI student since 2011 and a moderator since 2014. This will be his 21st seminar and the 11th in his film noir series. Past seminars on science fiction movies, film noir, the big band and easy pop eras, American musical theater and the great American songbook (with Bill Lavin) all received good reviews.

The Ever-growing, Ever-changing English Language

A blue starburst graphic with the word "ZOOM" in white capital letters.

We will look at the history of the English language from the pre-English days of Celts and Romans, through Anglo-Saxon Old English, Norman Middle English and the origins of Modern English (yes, that includes Shakespeare). We will examine the influences of many languages upon the development of English and see how American English and British English came to a parting of the ways. Finally, we will see how the English language continues to grow and change, as words and idioms come and go, taking on new and different meanings.

Seminar Limit: 24

6 Wednesdays, January 18-February 22

3-5 p.m., ZOOM

Rita Dushman Rich is a retired speech/language pathologist with a lifelong love of both language and history. She has moderated several UDOLLI seminars, as well as teaching various professional seminars and classes on aspects of Judaism at Temple Israel. With communication her professional focus and English history one of her hobbies, it was natural for Rita to be fascinated by the development of the English language.

Wonderful Untold Stories We All Should Know About NEW

The journey of Blacks in America is filled with wonderful stories of the collaboration of Blacks and others to help this great country and overcome racism. Some of these stories have been discussed if you've taken the Our American Journey Tour, while others may be new to you. Note: There will be two separate sessions of the same program. Members should only sign up for one.

1 Thursday, January 26

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Michael Carter was appointed by President Johnson in 2015 as Senior Advisor to the President and Chief Diversity Officer. In 2021 The Dayton Business Journal awarded Michael the Diversity in Business Award. Michael holds a B.A. from Wittenberg University and an M.A. in educational leadership from Wright State.

“The Iliad”: The Ancient Greek Epic in Form and Content NEW

The seminar will look at the meaning of the ancient Greek epic poem, “The Iliad.” Lectures will place the content of the poem in its ancient context as well as the poem’s relevance to the modern world. We will explore the Homeric tradition, give the setting of the poem in the ancient world, and explore and explain the content chapter by chapter.

Attendees are expected to read two chapters (or Books as they are usually referenced) in preparation for each week’s discussion. Reading of any translation of “The Iliad” will suffice for the seminar, though translations produced after the mid twentieth century should be preferred. The moderator will have prepared lectures based upon content, but student questions and observations will be encouraged.

Preparation for the First Session: Read the first two chapters.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Tom Duffee has played banjo with the performing group, the Corndrinkers, for over 40 years. He has also had a long association programming country and bluegrass music on WYSO radio. His weekly show, “A Country Ramble,” can be heard on WYSO on Sunday evenings, 6 to 8 p.m.

Vocal Group Hall of Fame NEW

This seminar will cover the Vocal Group Hall of Fame. We will hear music from many vocal groups such as the Andrew Sisters, Ink Spots, The Platters, The Flamingos, Abba, the Bee Gees and others from the 1940s through the 1960s. A special session will feature doo-wop groups. Over 100 artists will be included in the seminar.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

9:30-11:30 a.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Gary Ruff has degrees from Wright State University and University of Dayton. He is a retired high school teacher. Hobbies include music and adult softball. He previously taught over 50 seminars at UDOLLI. Gary has over 4,000 45 RPM records from mostly the 50s, 60s and 70s. Gary has taught History of Sci-Fi Films, Major Events of the 20th Century and many music seminars.

U.S. Grant NEW

ZOOM

This seminar covers the life of U.S. Grant from his birth in 1822 to his death in 1885. We will look at his family life as a young man, the reason why he attended West Point, his participation in the Mexican War, his marriage to Julia Dent and his drinking problem when serving in isolated posts away from his wife. We will follow his rise to General in Chief during the Civil War as he developed a strategy to defeat the Confederacy. We will also look at his two terms as President, where he was faced with the unsolvable problem of bringing the Confederate states back into the Union while preserving the rights of newly freed slaves. In later life, his trusting nature brought about the loss of most of his money to a fraudulent investment scheme. The writing of his memoirs, finished just before his death, brought in enough money to assure his wife's solvency.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

Mark Cannon is a retired scientist with a strong interest in history. He has presented many seminars at UDOLLI including The Tudors, A Traveler's History of England, How England Lost Her American Colonies, the U.S. Civil War, World War 1, World War 2, The RAF in WW2 and A History of Carrier Aviation.

TED Talks That Inspire Us, #3

ZOOM

This Zoom seminar will present a different TED Talk each week and then allow for discussion on the topic. Participants will watch the talk during the session, then break up into small groups to discuss. If you like to delve into new and interesting topics and share ideas with other UDOLLI members, this seminar is for you. It will offer all new TED Talks from the previous seasons and may include topics such as: Immigration, Space Travel, Transforming Energy, Death with Dignity and others.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

Mary Riordan is a retired educator and guidance counselor. She has taught seminars at UDOLLI on several topics including tech skills, geocaching, literature and grandparenting.

Wintertime Favorites

Participants will see a brief cooking lesson that is one hour in duration. At the end, they will be served the dishes prepared by DLM Culinary Center staff and provided with a copy of the recipe.

Seminar Fee: $60

4 Thursdays, January 19, February 2, 9, 23 (No seminar February 16)

10-11 a.m., Dorothy Lane Market Culinary Center

Dorothy Lane Market (DLM) Culinary Center is a cooking school for the home cook. Our classes consist of a variety of themes. We offer hands-on classes, as well as demonstration classes. We have many local instructors from the area as well as Culinary Center staff. Our wine and food pairing classes are very popular, as well as our technique classes. We offer private classes (events) for office parties, bridal and baby showers, birthday parties, etc. We are passionate about all things food, but most of all cooking for our wonderful customers.*

The Joy of PowerPoint NEW

Other than a new puppy or bottle of scotch, there is not much more fun than making PowerPoint slides. Learn how in this interactive, hands-on seminar taught by two experienced moderators. We will start by building a basic slide with words and images, then move on to more exotic things like animation, audio (sound effects and music) and video (like YouTube). Along the way you'll learn how to make maps, posters and tables. We'll finish with tips on presenting. The seminar will proceed at the students' pace, so we may not get to cover everything. Or it may not take the full six weeks and we get a day off!

Required Equipment: Each participant must bring a fully charged MS Windows 10/11 laptop computer to every session (no power cords please) with PowerPoint 2016 or a more recent version loaded and ready to go.

Although training materials will be sent to you before each session by email, old-fashioned pencil and paper might be useful for taking the occasional note.

Seminar Limit: 10

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Fran O'Connor is a happily retired businessperson and software systems engineer. Now she is enjoying UDOLLI, volunteering and being a grandmother. She loves new technology and likes to learn new things. We think you will enjoy our seminar!*

Fred Oliver is a retired WPAFB engineer. He's been moderating at UDOLLI since 2014. Since then, he's generated thousands of PowerPoint slides for his 20-plus seminars. This seminar is an extended and much more leisurely version of his two-hour introduction to PowerPoint.*

Railroad Empire

The new exciting technology of railroads brought the developing United States together in the 19th century as never before by providing modern transportation and communication. It was also the growth industry of the century and created more jobs than any other industrial component. Modern management methods developed with far flung organizations with many different skill requirements. It was also the time of the railroad barons, watered stock and union strikes. The seminar will also examine the growth and decline of railroads and interurbans in the Miami Valley. From Embryonic Growth to the Golden Age to the Decline of Rail, this seminar will provide a gripping overview of the railroad industry.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Paul Cooper is a retired Air Force pilot with a fascination with 19th century United States frontier history. He is a graduate of the University of Washington and has a master's degree in history. Railroads have always interested him, beginning with the stories his grandfather told him of his 40 years working for the Wabash Railroad. In addition to the many seminars in aviation and frontier history that he conducts for UDOLLI, he serves on the Board of Trustees for the National Museum of the Air Force Foundation and gives frequent tours at the museum.

Beginner's Mah Jongg NEW

This seminar will teach the basics of the game Mah Jongg, a game that has been around for centuries. We will learn from experts' videos, but mostly hands-on. Don't be intimidated by this game. There is a learning curve, but it is a great game for the brain.

Seminar Fee: $10 for the Official Mah Jongg card; payable to the moderator at the first session.

Seminar Limit: 12

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Leila Oliver is a retired civilian after 35 years working at Wright-Patterson AFB. Her last assignment was a technology transfer manager for the Sensors Directorate, Air Force Research Lab. In this job she coordinated marketing of technology from the lab to private industry, working also with the legal office to transfer patents of the lab's technology. She also presented the material to military and civilian audiences.

Leila is a native of Fairborn and a graduate of Antioch University. She has been playing Mah Jongg for over 10 years and wants to share the game with others.

She will be assisted by Tess Biersack and Pat Zimmer.

Erma! NEW

Erma Bombeck made America laugh, and sometimes cry. One of the nation's most widely published columnists and best-selling authors, she was loved by millions of readers. Columns were taped on refrigerators and mailed to kids at college. We will focus on Erma's life as a writer, wife and mother, and campaigner for women's equality, plus her impact on, and her place in, American humor and journalism. We'll also look at her standing as it has evolved over the years within the 20th-century world of wits such as Russell Baker, Dave Barry, Art Buchwald, Nora Ephron, Ellen Goodman and Molly Ivins.

Special speakers: At one of the sessions, we will be joined by Teri Rizvi, founder and director of the nationally renowned Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop at the University of Dayton, and Kristina Schulz, University of Dayton Archivist. UD is the home to the Erma Bombeck Collection, her archive.

3 Thursdays, February 9-23

12:30-2:30 p.m., ZOOM

Susan McGough received her master's degree in American Studies from the University of Hawaii. She has taught both American history and literature at the college level and for lifelong learning communities. This will be the fifth time she has taught this seminar for Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes.

Funny Science Fiction Movies NEW

Do you need a good laugh to get over the winter humdrums? Then check out this seminar. We will view six science fiction films that take an irreverent look at science, aliens, and interstellar and interplanetary wars. Some are parodies of former television shows, others deal with secret government agencies that are administering alien immigration to the planet, some are updates of S-F classics and, of course, there is the odd alien invasion or two, and we will try to figure out the ultimate question, the answer to which is 42. In case you have not figured out the titles from the clues given, we will watch Galaxy Quest, Young Frankenstein, Men in Black, Mars Attacks, Spaceballs and A Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy. Be forewarned two of these are from the Mel Brooks school of film and may be a little risqué.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Janet Hess is a former junior high/high school teacher of social studies and English. One of her favorite books as a child was Madeline L'Engle's "A Wrinkle in Time." She has been reading SF ever since. She is a member of Syzygy, a science fiction book club. She would love to talk with you about your favorite speculative fiction book or film.

America's Home Front in WWI: Propaganda, Dissent and Peace Activism, Censorship and Vigilantism

This seminar covers what happened, not in Europe, but here in America during World War I. We will cover the government's promotion of the war through an elaborate propaganda machine; the story of the vast numbers who were involved in dissent and those who promoted peace activism; and how the government censors worked overtime to control the message of wartime America, including the use of the controversial Espionage and Sedition Acts. Most people have focused on our fighting troops during this war, and there is little awareness of what was happening on the homefront at the time.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Tim Hrastar has been actively involved in UDOLLI since 2005, is currently a consultant to the Board of Advisors, and has moderated 35 seminars over the years in American history, as well as discussion groups covering economic, social and cultural issues. Tim was self-employed for almost 40 years as an audio-visual writer-producer-director of corporate programs and conferences; as well as a communication and business development consultant, coach and facilitator for professional service firms — focusing on the legal profession. He earned B.A. and M.A. degrees in communications from the University of Dayton.

Story of Christianity, Part Two: The Middle Ages

 ZOOM

Having looked at the beginning of Christianity, we will now turn to the Middle Ages when the church began to solidify its positions and its influence. Specific movements and people (both male and female) will be explained as well as the development of the papacy. Participants are encouraged to choose a book from their own tradition as a supplement to the history presented (suggested titles will be provided to those who register). NO book is required for this seminar; you may just listen and learn. It is hoped that you will ask questions and offer what information you may have as the seminar proceeds. The final portion of Christian History will be presented in the spring.

6 Thursdays, January 19-February 23

3-5 p.m., ZOOM

CarolAnn Cannon has been involved in adult faith formation in the Dayton area for more than 40 years. She received a Master of Arts in theological studies from UD in 1986 and is certified as both a catechist and a catechetical leader by the Archdiocese of Cincinnati. Her seminars with the UDOLLI have included: Christian History [3 programs], the Old Testament, the New Testament, WHO do you say that I am? — a Christology, Crusades as well as Barbarians and the So-called Dark Ages, and The Papacy and the Bishops of Rome.

FRIDAY SEMINARS

Stay Fit as You Sit

ZOOM

What can you do while sitting (or standing with the optional support of a chair) to improve flexibility, core and breath awareness, balance and stress management through the use of music or contemplative opportunities? Try chair fitness to find out. All abilities welcome. Modifications of stretches, strengthening exercises and postures will be provided so each participant can adapt the program to meet their own physical needs and abilities. Music, meditations and poses may be Christian influenced. It is recommended that, just as with all new exercise regimes, you consult your physician prior. Sessions will be about 50-60 minutes long.

6 Fridays, January 20-February 24

9:30-10:30 a.m., ZOOM

Gene Idol started training in Taekwondo in 1974. He eventually reached 5th degree black belt. After achieving the rank of 1st degree in 1977, he began learning Tai Chi and has been practicing ever since. Gene added the Chi Gong routine in 2018 after hip replacement surgery.

Crime and Punishment — Baltimore NEW

This seminar will explore three notable TV series based on fictional police and criminal elements in Baltimore, Maryland. In chronological order, the series are “Homicide: Life on the Street,” “The Corner” and The Wire. We will look at the people behind each series, including writers, producers and actors. In addition, we will examine the impact of each series as well as how each was received by critics and audiences. These award-winning TV series showed life on the streets of Baltimore that sometimes played out in current events, such as the April 2015 death of Freddie Gray in police custody.

4 Fridays, January 20-February 10

9:30-11:30 a.m., ZOOM

John Sheehan has moderated seminars for UDOLLI since 2012, on topics from photography to nuclear weapons, aviation to the literature of European spies, the diversity of Texas music, The Patriot Act, the life and literature of Larry McMurtry and the rise of fascism in democratic societies. John retired from Wright-Patterson AFB in 2006 as the Chief of Ground Safety for the Air Force Materiel Command and is the author of “Gunsmoke: USAF Worldwide Gunnery Meet” published by Motorbooks International.

Worth a Deeper Look NEW

This photography seminar is a continuation of a previous seminar. This forum offers students the opportunity to explore aspects of photography (light, composition, subject) in greater depth. Examples of rules for composing photos will be covered and broken. Students will provide photos for us to explore and improve. We will use the National Geographic photographer, Joel Sartore’s second workshop as a foundation. Students will explore photographer’s video workshops according to their need/interest.

Equipment Needed: A Mobile Phone or DSLR

Seminar Limit: 12

5 Fridays, January 20-February 17

Where Were You in ‘62? — A Year in Music

Despite the long-standing commonly held belief, “the music” did NOT die with Buddy Holly in 1959, only to be revived by the Beatles in February 1964. To the contrary, that five-year period saw the development and growth of various styles of wonderful music including Motown, Soul, Phil Spector’s Wall of Sound, Folk, Tex-Mex and Surf. 1962 was a year with an especially great variety of pop music that included these types and more. We’ll listen to the original recordings and encourage sing-alongs by providing all lyrics on the big screen. Come join us in, as Bob Seger sang, “‘hummin’ a song from 1962.”

6 Fridays, January 20-February 24

12:30-2:30 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Walt Wurst earned his Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Kentucky in 1970, and followed with a Master of Business Administration from the University of Dayton in 1980. He has invested/wasted many hours of his life listening to and reading about music of all types, beginning at age of 4-5 years old. Having spent 35 years as a budget analyst/financial specialist with the U.S. Air Force at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Walt welcomed the chance to share his love of this music with like-minded folk. He was honored to be identified as a UDOLLI Distinguished Moderator in 2018.*

Effective Communication With Your Healthcare Provider Will Result in Better Care for You

This seminar is designed to help you communicate more effectively with your doctor or other healthcare providers, which in turn should lead to better healthcare for you. Poor communication can be frustrating and lead to misunderstandings and misinformation. While there are factors that are beyond a patient's control (such as the time constraint of an office visit) there are many factors which a patient can control. What is the best way to request a second opinion? How can you prepare for a routine examination to make the most of your visit? Should you take someone with you to a pre-op consultation? Participants will be asked to send in their own questions or previous issues in advance of the seminar if they wish.

1 Friday, February 17

12:30-2:30 p.m., ZOOM

Robert A. Goldenberg, MD, retired in 2019 after 43 years of medical practice (surgery of the ear) in Dayton and as chair of the Department of Otolaryngology (ENT) at Wright State University's Boonshoft School of Medicine. He is a graduate of Stanford University (AB 1963), University of Louisville (MD 1968), University of Illinois (residency 1973). He was stationed at the U.S. Naval Hospital Camp LeJeune from 1974-1976. He has extensive research experience and many publications in his field.

Effective Communication With Your Healthcare Provider Will Result in Better Care for You

This seminar is designed to help you communicate more effectively with your doctor or other healthcare providers, which in turn should lead to better healthcare for you. Poor communication can be frustrating and lead to misunderstandings and misinformation. While there are factors that are beyond a patient's control (such as the time constraint of an office visit) there are many factors which a patient can control. What is the best way to request a second opinion? How can you prepare for a routine examination to make the most of your visit? Should you take someone with you to a pre-op consultation? Participants will be asked to send in their own questions or previous issues in advance of the seminar if they wish.

Seminar Limit: 30

1 Friday, February 17

3-5 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

War Between Ukraine and Russia and Its Consequences ZOOM

As History unfolds before us, Vladimir Putin is the dictator of a brutal Russian police state; a dictatorship presiding over a rapidly collapsing economy; a dictatorship engaged in a vicious invasion of Ukraine, with escalating costs to the Kremlin and the Russian people; a telling exposure of systemic Russian military weakness. How did this happen? What might come next: A Turning Point in Russian Imperial History?

1 Tuesday, January 17

6-8 p.m., ZOOM

Dr. Elmo E. Roach is a native Daytonian, graduating from Chaminade High School in 1956. He is a USMC veteran, having served 18 months on the South China Sea. He graduated with a B.A. from UD in 1963 and went on to graduate work at The Ohio State University, earning his M.A. in 1965 and his Ph.D. in 1968 in Russian studies and history. He served as a faculty member at Bradley University, Peoria IL, 1968-2005, where he became Director of International Programs. As a Russian historian, he published many scholarly articles and an instructional book for the U.S. Department of Defense. He developed and managed several U.S.-Russian academic exchange programs, and in 1994 was appointed a foreign member of the Russian Academy of Natural Sciences, Section on Geopolitics, Moscow.

A Visual Tour: Welcome to the Universe NEW

A local, amateur astronomer of 70 years will guide you through a visual and explanatory tour of the visible universe — from the earth — through the Solar System — to our local stellar neighborhood — to our galaxy — on to the universe. We will hear the story and significance of the features of the universe in some depth, using amateur and professional spectacular images of celestial objects observed and measured by astronomers presented in rough order of their distance from Earth. This information will provide you with details of how you can begin your own journey to night sky “looking up” adventures, with or without a telescope. No prior astronomy knowledge is required.

6 Tuesdays, January 17-February 21

6-8 p.m., Daniel J. Curran Place

Ron Whitehead is an amateur astronomer (starting at age 10), and in Beavercreek has his Beacon Hill Observatory in the backyard in light polluted suburban skies. Ron is a member of many astronomical organizations, including the Astronomical League (formerly the Executive Secretary), Miami Valley Astronomical Society, Meteoritical Society, Association of Lunar and Planetary Observers, the Webb Deep-Sky Society and many more. Ron's interests include observing and imaging galaxies, nebulae, clusters and planets, and the moon. Ron retired from the USAF where he was a program manager, systems engineer and acquisition officer. After retirement, Ron was an educator, providing training and certification in project and program management, and systems engineering for the Air Force, Navy, government agencies, (both U.S. and foreign), industry and NASA.

Ron lives in Beavercreek, has been married 58 years to Leigh, and has four children and 11 grandchildren.

ONLINE LEARNING

American Air Power in World War II

American Air Power was decisive in World War II. Following the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor it continued to evolve until the climatic bombing of Japan that negated a reason for invasion and saved millions of lives. This online seminar will look at the carrier war fought by our sea services in the Pacific and examine the impact of the Army air forces both in Europe and Pacific theaters. Newsreels and video will highlight the evolution of air power. The individual heroes that received the Medal of Honor in the air will be identified.

6 Weeks, January 17-February 27

Online

Paul Cooper is a retired Air Force Brigadier General and pilot with 35 years of service. He has combat experience in Vietnam, Desert Storm and Bosnia, and has commanded three different air bases. He is a graduate of both the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and Air War College, and has a master's degree in aviation history. He is past president of UDOLLI and serves on the Board of Trustees at the Foundation of the National Museum of the Air Force.

ATTENDANCE

We encourage you to attend all seminars and activities for which you have registered. Our moderators volunteer their time so it is important for them to know it is valued and appreciated.

- If you are registered for seminars and circumstances prevent you from attending seminars, before the session begins or after the session has started, please call Special Programs and Continuing Education at 937-229-2347 to cancel your seminar registration.
- An early cancellation helps another member attend a seminar that was full or at its capacity.
- Do not attend a seminar for which you have not registered, because some seminars have seminar limits or recommended text readings or materials.

OTHER CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS AT UD

SENIOR FELLOWS

If you are 60 years of age or better, you can become a UD Senior Fellow. Membership in the Senior Fellows program includes the privilege of attending any two seminars for which you meet the prerequisite—undergraduate—each term on an audit basis.

(Books and special fees are extra.)

DAYTON CELEBRATION CHORUS

The Dayton Celebration Chorus is an adult community chorus that serves the city of Dayton and the Miami Valley region. Open to all interested adult singers and requiring no audition, the Chorus sings a diverse repertoire of both sacred and secular choral literature, with an emphasis on American music. Founded in 2003 as the Schuster Center Celebration Choir, the organization was first sponsored by the Victoria Theatre Association. In 2014, the group affiliated with the University of Dayton Office of Special Programs and Continuing Education.

Performance venues have included the Schuster Center for the Performing Arts, Courthouse Square Grande Illumination, Kroc Center, Dayton Art Institute, Victoria Theatre, The Greene, UD Arena, Fifth Third Field, and various churches and retirement communities. Chorus members have enjoyed performance opportunities with the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra's Holiday Festival Community Chorus, the UD New Horizons Band, the Miami Valley Symphony, and various guest artists and conductors. DCC has been selected annually to sing the National Anthem for the Dayton Dragons at Fifth Third Field.

For registration information, please visit:

Udayton.edu/continuing_education/noncredit_offerings/daytoncelebrationchorus/.

NEW HORIZONS MUSIC

Learn to play music in a band as a senior adult—even if you have no musical experience! Playing music is a special joy that will help you maintain mental and physical health. It is also a way of experiencing life—playing music from the past keeps us in touch with those feelings; daily practice keeps us active in the present; and striving for new goals attaches us to the future. One band member describes it as “serious fun.”

As a member of New Horizons Music, you will meet new friends and work with them as a team to learn music for concerts and other performances in the community. New Horizons ensembles typically perform many times each year in venues ranging from formal concerts to shopping malls and from parks to retirement and nursing homes.

UD New Horizons Music offers adults 50 years of age or better the opportunity to begin a musical instrument and provides a re-entry point for those who have been away from active music making for many years. Instruments taught include: flute, oboe, bassoon, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, French horn, trombone, baritone, tuba and percussion.

For registration information, please visit: https://www.udayton.edu/continuing_education/senior_programs/nhmp/index.php

THE FANTASTIC FLYER FOLLIES

The University of Dayton Special Programs and Continuing Education recently launched a traveling performance company exclusively for seniors. Are you a singer, dancer, musician or actor? Join us! No experience? No problem. Just bring your energy, enthusiasm and most importantly your love of musical theater!

Stay active, have fun and be a part of Dayton's Fantastic Flyer Follies!

Enrollment is $40 for each 6-month period.

For additional information and how to register, Contact Jacqueline Heman at 937-435-3353, or Barbara Hayde at bhayde043@gmail.com.

FOOD DRIVE

The University of Dayton Special Programs and Continuing Education will be holding a food drive. Please lend a hand and bring in canned goods during the dates provided below.

CONNECTING GENERATIONS & CULTURES

A TALENT BANK & CLEARING HOUSE PROGRAM

With age comes experience and wisdom that can be priceless when shared with others

1. What Is This Program About?

The UDOLLI Connecting Generations & Cultures (CGC) program connects UDOLLI to the Dayton area community utilizing our vibrant, highly educated, experienced and talented members. Connecting Generations & Cultures is a Talent Bank & Clearing House program for community organizations. We put your talents to work by connecting you to organizations to help carry out their mission. As members of our program, many of you are ready and anxious to share your decades of knowledge, experience and wisdom with those who can benefit.

2. Connecting Criteria

The CGC program has been reaching out to various community groups, and many have reached out to us. We connect to organizations that meet any one of these criteria: is it educational, cultural, civic, social, governmental, inter-generational? Can our members and the organization's members contribute to and benefit from the connection experience? As opportunities come along we promote them to UDOLLI members. Check out our connected organizations at right. Let us know of any organizations you feel would make a good connection with our program.*

*NOTE: A recommendation is no guarantee we will make a connection. We carefully review every idea to ensure it fits within UDOLLI's mission and the objectives of the Connecting Generations & Cultures program. Our Executive Director makes all final decisions. All UDOLLI members involved with any Connecting Generations & Cultures program must understand and accept that they represent the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Dayton and must adhere to all rules and regulations that may apply to the University and our program.

3. Connecting You

Here's how we get you connected. We communicate an organization's needs in a variety of ways: email, newsletter, seminar announcements, special presentations and promotional flyers. You'll learn about the organization, decide if you're interested and then you reach out to the organization's contact directly. You are then on your way to a new adventure.

Your connection could be for a single project or an ongoing program.

For example, you could share your ideas during a creative planning session or work with the organization on a regular basis to carry on their mission. There may be several of your fellow UDOLLI members involved in the same activity, or it might be just you. Whatever project or organization you get involved with, you will meet new friends and perhaps build lifelong relationships. You may even find that a connection can be life changing. You may be a senior, but you're not done yet! You can share your years of experience and wisdom to make our community a better place.

4. Our Connected Partners

The following list includes all organizations to-date we have connected with since the inception of CGC in 2013. With some of our connections our members have been deeply involved working on a variety of projects, while with others we are just getting started in making deeper connections. The connection may currently be active or inactive. Our members have contributed their expertise in a variety of ways: teaching, mentoring, donating, facilitating deliberation discussions, and facilitating creative and strategic planning sessions.

1. National Issues Forums Institute (Kettering Foundation)
2. Mound Street Academies
3. Miracle Clubhouse (Miami Valley Goodwill Easter Seals)
4. Ohio Law Enforcement Association
5. UD Center for International Programs
6. UD Center for Human Rights
7. UD Alumni Mentoring
8. The Collaboratory
9. The Dayton Foundation Del Mar Encore Program
10. Discovery Lab Global
11. Village to Village Network
12. Miami Valley Foodbank
13. Hillel Academy

REGISTRATION AND RELATED INFORMATION

Remember these helpful tips and important facts as you register.

- The $80 registration fee entitles you to select as many seminars as you wish.
- Payment is due when you register. Your confirmation letter serves as your receipt/invoice.
- You can register for UDOLLI seminars online, by phone, fax or mail. Email requests will not be accepted.
- Seminars may be canceled if fewer than 10 persons register. You will be notified should that occur.
- Once a seminar reaches its specified “seminar limit,” you will be waitlisted and notified if an opening occurs.
- If you cannot attend the first day of your seminar, please let us know by calling 937-229-2347. Otherwise, you may be withdrawn from the seminar.

About refunds. To receive a refund of your $80 registration fee, please notify Special Programs and Continuing Education, 937-229-2347, by January 9, 2023. After that date, refunds are not given.

Parking permits. In order to park on campus everyone must properly display a valid University of Dayton permit. This also includes handicapped-designated spaces.

The fee for parking is $60 per permit issued; however, as a courtesy and thank you for your continuing support of UDOLLI, especially during the pandemic, we are offering one pass per household free of charge to you. If a spouse or someone else in the household requires a second permit, the fee of $60 will apply.

After you have registered and prior to the start of the winter program you will be contacted by the Office of Special Programs and Continuing Education with regard to ordering your parking permit. You may then stop by the office during the first week of seminars to pick up the permit you have ordered. Office hours are Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

The R1 permit is also valid on the main campus, after 4 p.m. weekdays; open parking (without a permit) is allowed on weekday evenings after 7:30 p.m. and on weekends.

Once you receive your permit, please keep it in a safe place for use during the program. Remember to display it properly from the rearview mirror. Lost or stolen permits, as well as parking citations, are the responsibility of the member. Replacement permits cost $60 per person, per permit.

Face coverings remain optional in most shared indoor spaces on campus.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES

You can register for UDOLLI seminars online, by phone, fax or mail. Due to the popularity of UDOLLI seminars, please register promptly and whenever applicable, please indicate 1st, 2nd and/or 3rd choices, if registering by telephone or fax. If registering online, selections are live so alternative choices are unnecessary.

Online Registration—Recommended Registration Option (beginning Monday, December 5 at 9 a.m.) Each registrant will need to have his/her own individual email address. (Payment is required at time of registration.) While there are two methods to register, the online choice is recommended. Online registration begins Monday, December 5 at 9 a.m.—telephone requests will be accepted on/after Monday, December 12.

Please contact the Special Programs and Continuing Education Office prior to December 5, for information on pre-registering an online profile if one has not already been created for you. If unsure, the office can assist with information regarding profiles, setting up email accounts or other registration questions.

TO REGISTER

To access the registration site, there are three options:

Online (Beginning Monday, December 5)

1. Go directly to the online registration site at: <https://udayton.eventsair.com/udolli/Winter23reg>
2. Access the main UDOLLI webpage at go.udayton.edu/udolli. Click the navigation link Winter 2023 Seminars. Click Online-Registration, choose the correct prompt to either create a new user account, or sign in with your existing account.

Phone and Fax Registration (Beginning Monday, December 12)

Call 937-229-2347 to talk with the Special Programs and Continuing Education registration specialist. If you receive a recorded message, please leave your name, telephone number and seminar selections, including alternative choices.

If registering by telephone, you may be requested to submit the completed registration form on page 53.

If registering by fax, please fax your completed registration form to 937-229-3500.

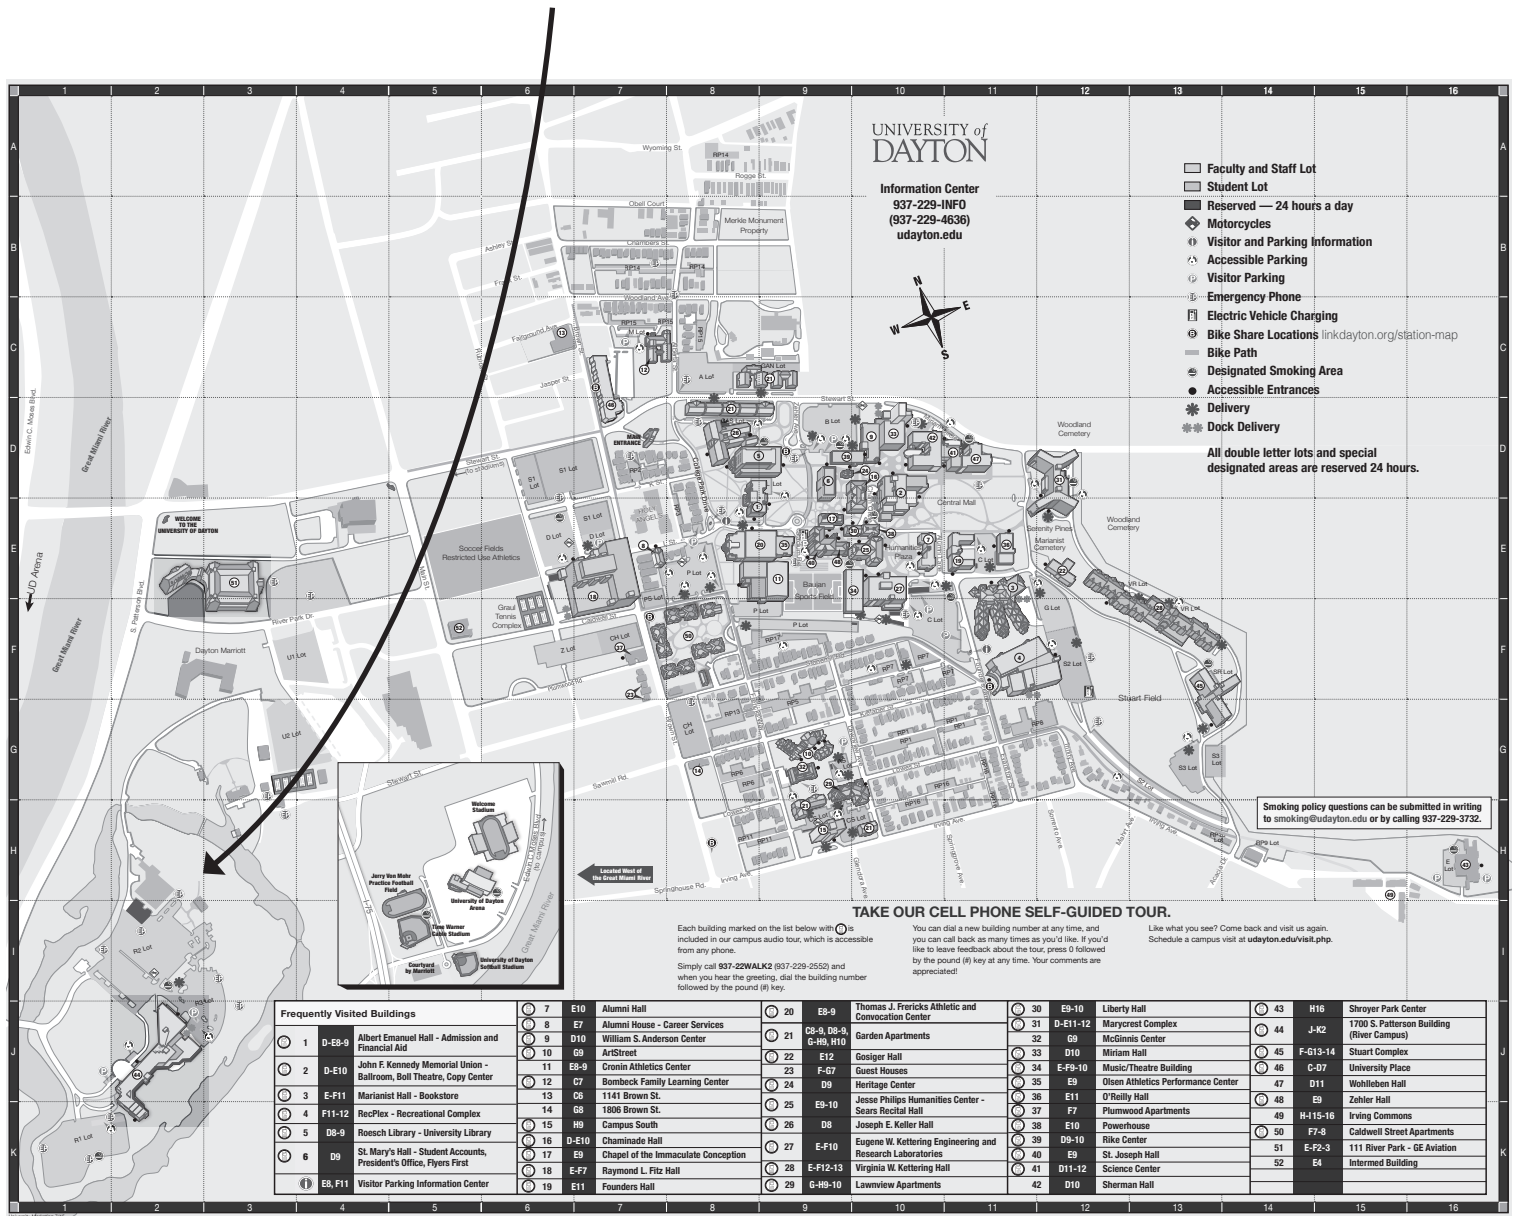

Mail Registration (Beginning Monday, December 12th)

All mail-in registrations must be postmarked after December 12th.

1. Complete the registration form on page 53.
2. If you pay by check or money order, make it payable to “University of Dayton.” If you pay by credit card, complete the method of payment information and include your signature.
3. Any registrations received before the first date of mail registration will be held for processing on after December 12.
